

HERBAL CONFERENCE

Celebrating Women and Plants

Sponsorship Kit

11th annual
October 2 - 4, 2015
Black Mountain, NC

We've certainly set down roots! The Southeast Wise Women Herbal Conference is recognized as one of the nation's most vibrant and well-respected regional gatherings for the study and celebration of herbal medicine, natural health, and women's wisdom.

What began with 200 women in 2005, has grown to over 1000 attendees at the 10th anniversary in 2014. This exponential growth, in itself, is testament to the power of women gathering together. In 2015, we celebrate the elders by "Honoring the Grandmothers." Rosemary Gladstar will present "Voices of Our Herbal Elders", and the conference will also feature the life and work of Marija Gimbutas, archeologist of women's history.

With over 60 classes and intensives that foster an empowered approach to wellness using herbs and other earth-based healing methods, we address the entire life journey of women—from midwifery to conscious dying, sacred sexuality to self-empowerment. Our instructors include renowned herbalists such as Aviva Romm, Pam Montgomery, and Rosita Arvigo.

The women who align themselves with the Southeast Wise Women and attend our annual conference are at the vanguard of the shift to a more responsible and conscious approach to health, wellness and personal growth. They represent the Lifestyle of Health and Sustainability (LOHAS) segment recognized by the Natural Marketing Institute (NMI)—an elusive and highly desirable component of the growing green market. We welcome organizations and companies who share our commitment to a healthy, holistic and verdant lifestyle to partner with us to support and engage this community.

Our community is well educated, affluent, and makes conscious, informed purchasing choices based on a core-value driven criteria and word of mouth recommendations from peers. The members of our community are devoted to their lifestyle and to the conference. As with the general population, these women make 83% of all purchasing decisions in their households, 93% of the food purchases and 80% of the health care decisions.

DEDICATED TO POSITIVE CHANGE

As an organization dedicated to creating positive change, Southeast Wise Women extends its outreach and educational programs beyond the field of herbal medicine and healing. Our conference themes address issues that women and girls face in today's society, including cultivating a multi-ethnic community with open sharing and dialogue around racial diversity, and empowering programs for young women.

Unity Village, the heart of the conference, aims to support women to connect and integrate by honoring our individual and shared heritage— creating safe and intimate spaces and inspiring creativity, playfulness, movement and relaxation.

Over the last five years, the conference participation by members of ethnic groups such as African Americans and Native Americans has increased significantly. In response to this, the Sister Love Tent creates an environment for women of color to connect with each other and explore their shared journey in a dedicated space.

The Red Tent, part of the international Red Tent Temple movement, offers a safe, sacred space for women of all ages and stages to be nurtured and heal through honoring and sharing their life experience.

Our young women's programs— Wise Maidens, for ages 13 through 17 and Soil Sisters, for ages 10 to 12—embrace the spirit of inclusion: These programs provide the young women in the Wise Woman community with a space of their own for the conference weekend—the Wise Maidens Tent and the Soil Sisters Lodge—as part of their fun, learning, sisterhood.
